The interior design is inspired by warm and contemporary tones, CALA LUNA stands out with its tasteful, understated styling that captures the turquoise notes of the clear waters of the South Pacific.

CALA LUNA is a 45' Lagoon 450 Fly Bridge model. The Flybridge offers the skipper 360 degrees visibility from the helm making her very easy to dock and monitor the sails.

There are four queen size cabins, each with their own private ensuite bathroom. All cabins have hatches and large windows which offer fantastic views of the sea or anchorage and excellent ventilation.

There are also two additional single cabins that can be used either for sleeping or storage.

From her main salon and outdoor "Lanai", CALA LUNA provides incredible 360 views of some of the most beautiful places on earth. The galley is located "up" in the salon making it a pleasure to create meals, whilst anchored or underway. The stern swim platforms offer excellent access to the water and are wonderful for swimming and water-sports.

CALA LUNA only had one previous owner, who used to take people out on day charters. He owned a restaurant and would have one of his chefs prepare lunch for his guest and he would skipper the boat, there was never any overnight charters.

A Word From The Owners:

"We have always wanted to sail the French Antilles and after doing my research, I decided the best cruising catamaran, with the most amount of room for my big family was the four cabin Lagoon 450F. When we purchased CALA LUNA we were not disappointed, she lived up to all of our expectation. She sails well and when at anchor she is the perfect boat to kick back and relax or have friends over for sundowners.

We have recently completed our family sailing adventure through the French Antilles, to Panama and are about to set sail to the Marqueses, Tuamotus and the French Polynesian Society Islands."

Broker's Comment:

The Lagoon 450F Cala Lunawill suit the most discerning buyers and particularly a family looking for a truly immaculate home on the water to join our growing cruising community. It is presented in truly astonishing condition and is an ideally equipped world cruising catamaran. Continuously upgraded by her Australian owners, a family who has already done a half-circumnavigation on their previous catamaran, a lagoon 440 which sold a few years ago, Cala Lunawas lavished continuous attention to details, religious maintenance of all her systems and mechanical aspects, as well as being equipped with safety, comfort and independence in mind.

Quick note: Cala Luna is leaving Nuku Hiva imminently and is expected to arrive in French Polynesia mid November, where her owners will be located in Tahiti and ready to receive visitors for inspections.

They aim to remain on board until Cala Luna has found a new family and will be able to assist with the logistics of the survey as well as sea trial and a detailed handover with the new owners.
